She died on April 26, 1710, and she was buried four days later. All of Simon Hadley's children were by this wife. Soon after the death of his first wife, Simon Hadley married (2) Elizabeth _____ He was disowned by the Society of Friends for marrying out of meeting at this second marriage, when he was seventy years of age. Simon Hadley died on June 6, 1711. He owned an iron smithy in Kings County, Ireland, and he was also interested in some fishery property in Dublin, Ireland. SIMON HADLEY, THE IMMIGRANT

Simon Hadley, the son of Simon and Catherine (Talbot) Hadley, was born around the year of 1675. He came to America, with his wife and six children, in 1712, from County West Heath, (Moate Monthly Meeting of the Society of Friends), Ireland, near Kings County boundary line where is English Ancestors had settled.

Simon Hadley Purchased a large tract of land in Pennsylvania in what was then the Manor of Steybing. Later New Garden Township, Chester County, Pa. Many of his friends and neighbors in Ireland also settled on land near by. Simon Hadleys' land was extensive. Some of it extended down into New Castle County, afterwards a part of the state of Delaware. His first house was probably only a temporary home as in fact most of the first houses were. He erected in 1717, the house that has stood for more than two hundred years. It is a three story stone structure, with a gabled roof. There are pointed windows under the gables, and a long porch. Underneath the pointed windows in the front, a white stone is sunk in the wall, and it is carved "s.&r. h." 1717. This means Simon and Ruth Hadley, and the year the house was built. Frame structures have been added to the house, on the rear and on the west side, by a recent owner. An old stone barn stands a short distance from the house. Simon Hadley married (1) Ruth Keran. She died on Dec. 18, 1751 and was buried in the burial grounds of the Friends. This Cemetery joins the old Meeting House and they are only about one mile from Simon Hadley's old farm. Simon Hadley is buried next to his wife, but, sad to relate, their graves were never marked. Simon Hadley married (2) Phoebe Brugg, the widow of Richard Buffington and the daughter of John and Frances Grubb, in July 22, 1752, at the New Garden, Chester Co. Pa. Friends Meeting House. He did not have any issue by her. She was a Quaker preacher and Simon made a settlement upon her at the time of her marriage. When the Delaware state line was established, it passed through Simon Hadley's farm and placed his house as well as his legal residence in Mill Creek, New Castle County, Del., Simon Hadley seems to have been wealthy, and as his sons grown to manhood, he assisted them in securing land of their own. In 1726, Joseph Hadley owned a farm near his father's farm, and that same year Simon Hadley made over to his son Joshua Hadley, another farm.

Simon Hadley died suddenly in 1756 and tradition says that when he was a very old man he was killed in his barn by a servant who planned to rob him of the money he is said to have carried about with him. It has been said that the British Army camped on Simon Hadley's farm on the eve of the Battle of the Brandywine, Chester County, Pa. Revolutionary War.

It is said that in settling the new country, the Hadleys seemed to have been good judges of land, which was purchased in the rich bottoms and always where springs abounded. They were surrounded by forest and unsettled conditions, but they formed communities with other friends, and soon created meeting houses and school houses. The Hadley family seems to have a high sense of honor for an old saying became current in certain sections in which they lived, that the name of "Hadley" was worth one hundred and fifty dollars to its owner. If a fence was discovered to have one rail more than the necessary, it meant that this fence enclosed Hadley land.
